

Proofpoint Security Awareness Customization Services

Free up your time and let us help brand your security awareness content

Key Benefits

- Free up your time as we modify training content for you
- Build a strong security culture by branding your security awareness content
- Scale for large enterprises with expanded language support
- Obtain transparency of expected deliverables

A well-branded security awareness program is key to building a strong security culture. Proofpoint not only can help you brand your program with little effort or time on your part, we can also help you to expand and scale it as well.

Build a Strong Educational Brand

With Proofpoint Security Awareness Customization Services, we help you customize selected microlearning content, from your brand logo to imagery to messaging to voice-overs. We can also help you reinforce company policies, tailor messaging and cultivate a strong and healthy security culture. We can customize the look and feel of a training module so that it aligns with your corporate branding guidelines. For example, we can modify the color, add a logo, find and replace text edits (or replace IT Administrators with Information Security), insert links to your company's policies and procedures and swap out images. We can also help make edits to voice-overs and the subsequent edits to VTT files.

Keep International Users Engaged

Proofpoint supports more than 40 languages, so we can help you localize selected modules to keep your global users engaged. Not only can we translate subtitles into multiple languages, we also support translation of voice-overs. This will allow you to provide your global users with content that relates to their culture and language.

Proofpoint provides different packages that are tailored to your needs. These packages range from simple branding modification to more complex changes. Choose the one that best meets your requirement and obtain transparency of expected deliverable.
